

Interview with Francis Carter

Container Terminal Manager

How long have you been working with the shipping industry and what have your job roles been?

I have been associated with the Port Industry for 45 years, having joined direct from High School in 1962. I have always been engaged in the operations side of the Industry. My total commitment and endeavor have enabled me to climb the ladder of success, and attain my present position of Container Terminal Manager.

What are your hobbies? And do you get time to pursue them?

My hobby, now, is playing golf, but unfortunately I am not able to pursue it in Cochin, due to the non availability of golf courses for the expatriate.

Have you visited other states in India? How was your experience?

I visited Bombay and Madras (as they were known at the time), in 1996, as part of the recruitment team of DPA, Jebel Ali.

Unfortunately I did not have time to tour around, but what I observed was that Bombay was a very busy city.

You would have worked in many countries all over the world, which country do you consider as second home?

I would consider England to be my second home, as I have now set up my permanent home in Spain. I look forward to the time when I can peacefully retire to there, and resume my hobby of playing golf.
